OHIO HERMIT MURDER CASE SOLVED

DETAILS OF BRUTAL SLAYING ADMITTED BY JAILED SUSPECT

Involves Accomplice In Puzzling Death Last August

MARIETTA, O., April 21. — Accusing Clay Simms, 28, of Sistersville, W. Va., as being the actual killer, Raymond Slider, 30, of Paden City, W. Va., today confessed the details of the brutal murder on August 8 last year of John Conrad, 81, known as the "Hermit of Cats Creek Hills," according to authorities.

Slider made his alleged confession at Sistersville, W. Va., where he was recovering from a mastoid operation, in the presence of O. J. Hill, prosecutor of Tyler County, W. Va., and Washington County, O., authorities.

Describing the details of the slaying of the 81-year-old Hermit, Slider was quoted by authorities as declaring that he, Simms, and Waldo Tipples, 25, of Paden City, W. Va., went to the Conrad home, fifteen miles north of her, for the purpose of robbery.

When the Hermit resisted the robbery attempt, according to the purported confession, he was beaten to death with a blackjack by Simms, who obtained the weapon from Tipples.

Slider declared, authorities said, that he had no part in the actual murder and that when the robbery was committed following Conrad's murder, he "went outside."

According to Slider's purported statements, $7,000 was taken from the Hermit's cabin and as the trio fled from the scene of the crime, the money was divided.

"I got $2,200," Slider was reported as telling authorities.

A fourth man was to have been a member of the robber party, authorities said Slider told them. He was Willie Stewart, 21. The trio was to have met Stewart near Conrad's home and accompany them in the commission of the robbery, according to Slider's alleged statements, but he failed to show up and the trio decided to work the job alone.

On the basis of Slider's purported statements to authorities, it was expected that murder charges would be lodged against the trio.

The clue to what authorities are convinced is the solution of the slaying of the aged hermit was furnished by police by Anna Kuebler of Sistersville, described by authorities as a "jilted sweetheart" of Simms, it was said.

DOROTHY MACKAIL DELAYS WEDDING

HONOLULU, April 21. — The scheduled wedding between Dorothy Mackail, film actress, and Neil Albert Miller, employed by a sugar experimental station here, was postponed by the prospective bride at the last minute, it was revealed here today.

Although she stated she still loved Miller, Miss Mackail was non-committal when asked why the wedding was postponed. She said she would return to the mainland after filming a picture here.

Miller and Miss Mackail applied for a marriage license here yesterday. The application was not accepted when the actress was unable to produce a divorce decree for a former marriage. The couple, after a visit to District Judge Brooks, whose son Philip Brooks was to have been best man at the ceremony, secured a special license. They were to have been married at the Brooks home last night.

MAY LINK BURKE IN OTHER CRIMES

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 21. — Police of Ohio and Illinois today were to attempt to definitely link Fred Burke, notorious killer of twenty-one men, with crimes in the two states.

Toledo, Ohio, police were to question the super-assassin concerning the murder of a patrolman there two years ago during the robbery of an American Railway Express truck.

Meanwhile, witnesses to a bank robbery at Collinsville, Ill., were expected to arrive here to view "the most dangerous gangster in America."

Accident - Free Utopia Predicted In Future At All-Ohio Safety Congress

COLUMBUS, O., April 21. — An accident-free Utopia, where there will be no stubbed toes, snagged silk stockings, shaving casualties, auto wrecks, airplane tailspins or typographical errors, is just around the corner in the next decade.

Visions of this happy land, where golf drives will never slice and trouser seats will forever remain firm against unfriendly advances of barbed wire fences, were shared with International News Service by the owner today at the All-Ohio Safety Congress.

Nearly 1,100 formal acceptances were received to invitations to the congress which opened this morning. An attendance of 1,500 to 2,000 was expected at the various general and sectional meetings scheduled for the three days of the conference.

The method by which the accident problem will be practically eliminated was hit upon, the discoverer blushed to admit, "quite by accident."

"Safety" lessons in industry will do the trick, he said, and he spoke with authority because he was A. D. Lynch, director of personnel of the Ohio Brass Co. at Mansfield, one of the most accident-free small industries in Ohio.

Nearly 1,100 formal acceptances were received to invitations to the habit—like smoking, or drinking, or golf.

"After we started teaching our men safety in the factory we found they had cut their 'home and community' accidents to the minimum."

It was several months, he said, before he discovered how his teachings effected his own home life.

He started thinking about it one day after he cautioned his wife about allowing an oven-door to remain open lest somebody bump against it.

"When did I get like that?" he

ALFONSO LEAVES TO VISIT LONDON; MAY VISIT KING GEORGE

Plans Abdication Of Throne Formally In June, Is Said

PARIS, April 21. — Alfonso XIII left Paris shortly after 10 a. m. today for a trip to London, where he will definitely shape his future plans after consultations with English bankers and business representatives.

The exiled Bourbon ruler, accompanied by the Duke of Miranda and Quinones de Leon, resigned ambassador here, departed for Calais by automobile to avoid crowds at the railroad station and possible demonstrations such as greeted him on arrival in Paris last Thursday.

Traveling under the incognito of the Duke of Toledo, Alfonso was expected to reach London tonight.

According to his spokesman, he will be chiefly occupied with the task of entering his third son, the Infante Juan, as cadet in the British Naval College. Other sources indicated he would liquidate some of his holdings to secure needed cash.

During his stay in London, it was considered probable that he would also pay a visit to King George and Queen Mary at Buckingham Palace.

It was learned on good authority here, meanwhile, that the most recent royal exile, still addressed as "Your Majesty, the king," by Spanish Royalists, planned formally to abdicate his throne. The official act will be held over for acceptance or rejection by the Spanish constituent assembly meeting in Madrid next June.

Before leaving for London, Alfonso decided to remove his temporary residence to a hotel in Fontainebleau. Quinones de Leon and the royal children will remain there indefinitely.

Departure of the royal exiles from the French capital will relieve official circles considerably, since there is a feeling in political quarters that demonstrations against them by radicals might embarrass the government.

Fontainebleau, some fifteen miles from Paris, will offer Alfonso the opportunity to follow developments in Spain closely without subjecting himself to constant public scrutiny by Parisian crowds.

MADRID, April 21. — While the republican government of Spain made steady progress in readjusting the country to its new political status, it planned today to become more independent of the army than the royal administration.

It was learned steps were taken to establish a civil protective force of workers to be called on in case of an emergency.

The emergency force will be formally organized, but rifles will be held ready in Madrid armories for instant distribution.

KILLING OF YOUTH PRESENTS MYSTERY

SUTTON'S BAY, Mich. — A murder mystery today caused this little Michigan town to seethe with excitement.

The murdered person was Andy Bellinger, aged 19. He was shot and killed in the darkened living room of his father's farmhouse. Five persons were present. The death gun cannot be found, the bullet is missing and a motive cannot be discovered.

Those present declared that the youth had committed suicide. Police declared that Bellinger was murdered and promised an arrest soon.

BANK BANDITS STEAL $3,000

RISING SUN, Md., April 21. — Two bandits held up the Rising Sun bank, a branch of the Elktion, (Md.) Bank and Trust Co., today and at pistol point forced Joseph Tyson, 55, the cashier, to give them $3,000 in cash.

HUSBAND DENIES KIDNAPPING WIFE

Protesting that his wife accompanied him willingly, Harry Drill of St. Paul, Minn., has been fighting extradition from Wisconsin, where he was arrested at Madison, after his heiress bride, Helen Fisher Drill, scribbled a note, in a filing station, which enabled authorities to find her. Mrs. Drill alleges her husband kidnapped her from

INVESTIGATE DEATH OF GIRL WHOSE BODY IS FOUND IN WELL

BUENOS AIRES, O., April 21. — Determined to probe every possible cause for the mysterious death of Miss Lucille Drew, 25, whose body was found at the bottom of an abandoned well, authorities today planned to submit the girl's stomach to Columbus chemists to find whether she had taken or been given poison.

Sheriff C. Fred Volmer hastened his investigation of the girl's death after preliminary examinations revealed that only a slight amount of water had entered the lungs, reducing the possibility of drowning.

The girl's death was further mystifying to officials because there were no marks upon the body to indicate that she might have been attacked by a murderer before being slain.

All boards over the well on the property of Frank Blair, where she was found, in place, officials abandoned the theory that she might have drowned herself.

This decision, they admitted, might be erroneous because the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Drew, when they started hunting their daughter Saturday, peered into the well and put the boards in place before leaving.

Although her parents were unable to notice the body, sheriff's deputies found it within a few minutes after they started using grappling hooks.

Miss Drew was last seen Saturday noon when she left her home to visit Blair's residence, a quarter of a mile away. Her parents started a search when she failed to return in the evening.

EX-FOLLIES BEAUTY WILL SEEK DIVORCE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 21. — That Helen Lee Worthing, former Follies beauty, contemplated filing a divorce complaint against Dr. Eugene C. Nelson, colored physician, here soon was revealed here today by her attorney, Ruben Licker.

The couple was married at Tijuana, Mex., in 1927 and have separated three times since they were married.

ASSERTS ECONOMIC CONDITION WILL BE ISSUE IN ELECTION

Prohibition, Tariff, Not Issues Says G. O. P. Senator

WASHINGTON, April 21. — The major issue in the 1932 campaign, when President Hoover runs for reelection, will be contemporary economic conditions, with neither prohibition nor the tariff occupying the spotlight, it was declared today by Senator Daniel O. Hastings (R) of Delaware, an administration spokesman in the senate.

In sharp contradiction of John J. Raskob, Democratic national chairman, who predicted prohibition and the tariff as the great issues for the next campaign, Hastings said the Republican party would win or lose on the basis of national prosperity at the time the voters go to the polls.

"The only issue in which the American people will be really interested next year will be the economic situation," said Hastings. "Unless that improves, the situation for the Republican party will be serious. We will have a hard fight on our hands. If conditions continue to improve and the nation is enjoying reasonably fair prosperity, the Democrats will be left in a hopeless minority, as usual."

Hastings, who was re-elected from Delaware last year as a dry against a wet opponent, predicted prohibition would not be a major issue next year.

"No party will make the prohibition question the dominant issue unless it be the party that is reasonably satisfied it has little chance to win and then adopts that issue as a gambler might, staking its hopes on a hundred-to-one shot for victory," said Hastings.

"Prohibition is a social question. It is not truly an economic or political issue, so far as a presidential campaign is concerned. The effort to blame agricultural depression on prohibition seems preposterous to me, when the wets in the same breath assert the nation is spending between three and eight billion dollars annually

BYRD'S DOG PAL IS DEAD

CHICAGO, April 21. — Igloo, the canine pal of Real Admiral Richard E. Byrd on his polar expedition, died early today in Boston.

News of the death was contained in a message from Mrs. Byrd, delivered to the explorer when he reached Chicago. Learning that the dog was ill, Admiral Byrd cancelled several speaking engagements last night and immediately started from Springfield, Ill., to Boston.

Now, the explorer said, he will resume his lecture tour, going to Memphis, Tenn., where he is due to appear tonight. A week from today, during a short recess in his lecture tour, admiral Byrd will go to Boston. Igloo will be buried then.

ARMY PILOT IS CRASH VICTIM

MANILA, April 21. — Lieut. Melvin M. Burnside, 29, Army Air Corps pilot, was killed today when his plane crashed at Fort Stotsenberg army post, central Luzon. The cause of the crash was not determined.

Burnside, a native son of Iowa, had been in the islands for six months. His death was the first army air fatality in the islands for three years.

ACTRESS SECRETLY WED

NEW YORK, April 21. — Frances Williams, actress and singer, is married. She admitted today she stole away to Kennedyville, Md., a week ago Sunday and became the bride of Lester Clarke. Clarke is a trumpet player in a New York orchestra.

WEALTHY ST. LOUIS PHYSICIAN MISSING; POLICE SEEK CLEWS

ST. LOUIS, April 21. — St. Louis police and St. Louis County authorities today were conducting an extensive search for Dr. Isaac D. Kelley, prominent and wealthy St. Louis physician who, according to his wife, failed to return from a sick call last night.

Police expressed the opinion today that Dr. Kelley had been waylaid and kidnapped.

Mrs. Kathleen Kelley, the doctor's wife, who as the former

MYSTERY NOTE CLUE TO HANGING

A mystery note, written by Louise Teuber, 17-year-old San Diego girl, is believed to have furnished the sheriff's office with valuable clues to the attacker or attackers of the girl, who was found hanging from a tree on Black Mountain, near the city. As soon as the half-nude body was found, a theory that she was the victim of a band of women who killed her in revenge for a fancied "love" pillage was advanced. Her father is a barber.

NOTES STUDIED FOR SOLUTION OF MURDER

The "city affairs committee" is nothing more than an annex of the Socialist party, masquerading under a name ingeniously contrived to deceive the public. The aim is to gain prestige which might advance the political fortunes of a group that has been repudiated repeatedly and decisively by the electorate. Holmes and Wise are both enrolled Socialists. Holmes was the campaign chairman of the Socialist candidate for mayor in 1929.

The mayor declared that other members of the city affairs committee were also active Socialists. Governor Roosevelt had no comment to make on Walker's reply. It was generally believed at the capitol that the governor will act in the matter before he goes south on May 1, and the consensus was that he will dismiss the charges against the mayor.

Mayor Walker went into detail in refuting allegations made against various departments of his administration.

Referring to the police department, which has been subjected to severe criticism because of the slaying of the girl, he said he found guilty of "framing" women on immorality charges, the mayor said:

"Continuous and resolute action to weed out grafters and shirkers who have found their way into the police force has been insisted upon by the mayor and those who have headed the department under him."

"The best evidence of the mayor's intent to keep the police department free from improper influences and corruption is his selection of the men to be police commissioners, namely George V. McLaughlin, Joseph A. Warren, Grover A. Whalen and Edward P. Mulrooney, four men conceded to be beyond suspicion, of the highest character and citizenship."

That San Diego's latest crime horror was a murder and not a suicide has been agreed by investigators. The girl was slain and the body tied to a tree by a rope, one end of which was then anchored to a stump twenty feet away.

Boy friends with whom Miss Teuber was known to keep company were being questioned by criminologists and deputy sheriffs who have been here a month investigating the brutal slaying of Virginia Brooks, the 13-year-old kidnaped school girl.

GIRL IN CLASS AS SUIT IS PONDERED

HAMILTON, O., April 21. — Miss Jean West, Portsmouth freshman, went to class at Miami University today, taking advantage of a partial court victory she scored yesterday in an attempt to prevent her expulsion from school, but she didn't recite.

Until he decides on the strength of her petition asking that Miami trustees be restrained from barring her from school because of low scholarship, she may attend classes as though she had never been excluded, Judge J. B. Barnes, of Sidney, sitting as special judge ruled.

Miss West must not participate in classroom discussions although she may listen as much as she wishes, Judge Barnes said. He expects to reach a final decision late next week.

SUNDAY MOVIES ARE LEGAL IN ENGLAND

LONDON, April 21. — British theater owners were jubilant today as the house of commons, by a vote of 258 to 210, adopted a bill legalizing Sunday movies and other entertainment in England.

Introduced by Home Secretary J. R. Clynes, it received the support of Premier J. Ramsay MacDonald. The bill abolished a law on the books since 1750.

DEFENDS SELF WITH CLAIM SOCIALISTS INSPIRED ATTACKS

Governor Roosevelt
Studies Answer Drawn
By Mayor

NEW YORK, April 21. — "Politics."

This, in a word, was Mayor James J. Walker's long-awaited reply to the charges of inefficiency, incompetence and negligence made against him by the city affairs committee, headed by the Rev. John Haynes Holmes and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, who weeks ago formally demanded that Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt remove the mayor from office.

The mayor's answer, a 15,000-word document which he compiled personally, was being studied by the governor at the executive mansion in Albany today. It is a detailed defense of the entire Walker administration and a compendium of its achievements. It emphatically and unreservedly denies all the charges.

"I declare," wrote the mayor in summing up his defense, "that I have adequately and consistently done my full duty as mayor of the City of New York."

"I ask that these charges be dismissed."

Mayor Walker bitterly assailed the Rev. Mr. Holmes and Rabbi Wise as "socialists" with political axes to grind.

"The accusations are signed by Holmes and Wise as individuals," said Mayor Walker. "To lend dignity to the charges which their names would not carry, they deputed themselves as the chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the 'city affairs committee.'"

"The 'city affairs committee' is nothing more than an annex of the Socialist party, masquerading under a name ingeniously contrived to deceive the public. The aim is to gain prestige which might advance the political fortunes of a group that has been repudiated repeatedly and decisively by the electorate. Holmes and Wise are both enrolled Socialists. Holmes was the campaign chairman of the Socialist candidate for mayor in 1929."

RAIN DRIVES AWAY SUMMER WEATHER

COLUMBUS, O., April 21. — Summer-like weather that has prevailed during the month was routed today by storm-cooled breezes that are reported to extend from the Rocky Mountains to the Great Lakes.

Central Ohio felt the sting of a vicious rain and electrical storm yesterday that brought on cooler weather. In some portions of the state frost was expected tonight, although weathermen said temperatures might not fall to the freezing mark.

Thousands of dollars of benefit was believed received by farmers in the state by yesterday's heavy rains.

The precipitation was general yesterday, prevailing from the mountain slopes eastward. Snow fell in Montana, Wyoming, Nebraska, Missouri and northern Oklahoma, with 20 degree temperatures being recorded in some of these states.

RECORD PASSENGER LIST IS CARRIED

NEW YORK, April 21. — The Italian liner Augustus will arrive here today with 1,440 passengers, a record list for 1931. Among the passengers is Commander Paolo Sberan, aeronautical attaché of the Italian embassy at Washington.

Other arrivals scheduled today from abroad are John Isaac, president of the Polish Seventh Day Adventists and Chester Morris, screen actor.

MINSTREL ACT AND CHORUSES FEATURE HOME TALENT SHOW

A snappy twenty minute minstrel show will be the main feature opening the second act of the home talent play, "Corporal Eagans" at the Opera House Thursday and Friday nights. End men will be Fred and George Haller, Ernest Mangan and Paul Halder and J. W. Allison will be interactor.

A men's sailor chorus and a girls' chorus will also take part in the minstrel and the girls' chorus, in special costumes, will assist throughout the entire performance. This chorus is composed of Misses Donna Devoe, Aletha Devoe, Ruth Killeen, Betty Hoag, Dora Hayward, Louise Bath, Emma Benson, Marylou Kieble, Marjorie Shoemaker, Mildred Jordan, Evelyn Quinn, Rose Hornick, Dorothea Burba, Marlan Snyder, Evelyn Ary, Alberta Murray and Mrs. Irene Kieble.

The opening feature of the performance will be a patriotic pageant in which 200 children, as well as the girls' chorus and the sailors' chorus will take part. Philip Campbell, in soldier's uniform, will give a reading, "My Dream of the Big Parade." Specialty numbers will be presented by the Misses Lucille Denham and Mildred Mason and Robert Owens. Miss Katherine Day is accompanist for the production.

Reserved seats will go on sale Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at Sohn's Drug Store. Tickets may be purchased from members of the American Legion Auxiliary or members of the cast and there will be no additional charge for the reserved seats.

ENTERTAIN CLUB AT WILMINGTON

Prof. George F. David, head of the sociology department of Wilberforce University and the Harmony Four, Wilberforce University quartet, appeared on the program of the Wilmington Rotary Club at its luncheon meeting at the General Denver Hotel, Monday.

Prof. David's subject was "The Negro Problem" and the quartet sang several numbers. Members of the quartet are George Luebbers, Zanesville, first tenor; W. B. Williams, San Antonio, Tex., second tenor; Gaynes Thompson, South Bend, Ind., first bass and Prof. H. Daniels, Lexington, Ky., second bass.

UNIQUE TREE IS DYING
HARRISBURG, Pa., April 21.—Pennsylvania's "unique" tree is dying, according to officials of the Department of Forests and Waters. The tree, a prostrate juniper, had a spread of forty-five feet and is but three feet high. It covers about 200 square feet of ground and is close to 200 years old. State forestry officials say the tree is the most southern outpost of the prostrate juniper family.

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young, yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Un-sightly pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy. Its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure. Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanished and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets will help save you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. 15c 50c and 60c. All druggists.

XENIANS ATTEND PRESBYTERIAL MEETING

Mrs. Paul D. Espey, of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church and Miss Emma Tresise, of Ruth Guild, are delegates from the local church to a meeting of the Dayton Presbyterian Church, Dayton, Tuesday and Wednesday. Mrs. W. T. Ungard and Mrs. George Baldwin of Ruth Guild and several members of the missionary society are planning to attend sessions of the Presbyterian.

A young peoples' meeting, in connection with the Presbyterian, will be held Tuesday evening, and the following representatives of the local church will attend: Betty South, Ruby Manor and Dorothy McCoy.

CELEBRATE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY SUNDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Camp, 312 N. Miami Ave., celebrated their second wedding anniversary Sunday and entertained at a six o'clock dinner in honor of the occasion. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Blakley and son, Basil, Opal May and William Travis, of Jamestown; Mrs. Ruth Camp, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Camp and daughter, Ruth Anna, Mr. Edgar Camp, of Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. Grover Watson and son, Joseph, Mr. Fred Johnson, of Silgo; and Mrs. Raymond Blakley and children, Lily Agnes and Clarence of this city; Miss Marie Harris, Jamestown; Mr. and Mrs. Camp and son, Lawrence.

MUSICAL PROGRAM IS GIVEN AT CLASS MEETING

A delightful musical program was given by daughters of members of the group in charge of the meeting of the Berean Class of Trinity M. E. Church at the home of Mrs. C. O. Rankin, E. Main St., Monday evening. Mrs. George Street conducted the devotional period.

Two readings were given by Jean Conklin and Virginia Turnbull played two violin solos. Mrs. Raymond Tobias sang a group of solos and Miss Juanita Rankin played a group of piano solos. Miss Rankin was accompanied for the other musical numbers. Later a social hour was enjoyed and a refreshment course was served the twenty-five guests by Mrs. Rankin, assisted by Mrs. A. A. Conklin, Mrs. George Eckerle and Mrs. Paul Turnbull.

Miss Marie Harris, Jamestown, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Camp, N. Miami Ave.

St. Agnes Guild of Christ Episcopal Church will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Louise Sandoe, 308 N. Detroit St. All members are urged to attend the meeting.

Persons having newspapers or old magazines that were not collected by A. C. Turrell, W. C. T. U., in its "clean-up day" activities Thursday, are asked to call No. 9.

Meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the First M. E. Church, which was to have been held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. N. Shank, W. Market St., has been postponed a week.

The decoration of chivalry will be conferred on a class of candidates of the Rebekah Lodge Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at Parker High School, First and St. Clair Sts., Dayton. All members of Phoenix Rebekah Lodge, this city, are invited to the services.

Old Town Community Club will meet at the school Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The public is invited.

Dr. Charles H. Stull, Granville, will speak at special services at the First Baptist Church Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at 7:30 o'clock. The public is invited to the services.

Miss Martha Newhinnie, Dayton, spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Herr, W. Main St., as the guest of Mr. George Herr.

Mrs. Herman White, Mrs. C. M. Balmer and son, all of Columbus, were guests Monday of Mrs. Ambrose Compton, W. Main St.

Miss Irma Teach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Teach, S. Detroit St., underwent an operation for appendicitis at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, Tuesday morning.

Miss Carrie Cline, this city, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Cline, near Jamestown.

Miss Margaret Weiss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Weiss, W. Market St., underwent a serious operation at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, Tuesday morning.

Annual inspection of Triumph Temple, Pythian Sisters, will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the K of P. Hall. Mrs. Edna Kirkham, Springfield, will be the inspecting officer and guests are expected from Springfield and Dayton. A luncheon will be served at the close of the inspection.

The Westview Community Club will meet with Mrs. Ernest Bradford Thursday at 1:45 p. m. Miss Ruth Radford, county home demonstration agent, will give a talk on "Knowing Values of What We Buy." Entertainment features have been planned and all women of the community are invited to the meeting.

Glady Community Club will meet at Glady Hall, Lower Bellbrook Pike Thursday evening. A covered dish supper will be served at 7:30 o'clock and each family is asked to bring a covered dish. A program has been arranged and music will be furnished by the Kyne Orchestra. The public is invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerson B. Curtis, N. Detroit St., entertained at their dinner guests Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Curtis, the Misses Estelle and Gertrude Curtis, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Curtis, Dr. E. L. Ro-shon and family, Mr. Albert Curtis, Miss Mildred Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. Justus Rankin, all of Sabina; Mr. and Mrs. George Haynes, Kingman and Mrs. George L. White, this city.

Miss Pauline Barnaby, Columbus, spent Sunday as a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Rankin, E. Main St.

Mrs. A. B. Dunkel, W. Market St., entered Espey Hospital Tuesday for medical treatment.

Mrs. A. D. Chamberlin, E. Church St., who recently underwent an operation at McClellan Hospital, continues to show steady improvement.

Mrs. Clara Jones, N. Galloway St., who underwent an operation at Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, several days ago, is slightly improved although her condition is still serious.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Fox (Frances Whittington), are announcing the birth of a daughter Sunday noon. The baby was born at the home of Mrs. Fox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Whittington, Stone Road.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Patterson (Margaret Davis), Brooklyn, N. Y., will arrive here Tuesday evening to spend several days with Mrs. Patterson's mother, Mrs. Cora G. Davis, S. Detroit St.

Miss Minnie Haninger, S. Detroit St., arrived here Monday evening after spending the winter in El Paso, Tex., and Bisbee, Ariz.

HONDURAN REBELS CONTINUE ATTACKS

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, April 21.—Although the Honduran government believed that five defeats administered to insurgents by federal troops broke the back of the north coast revolutionary movement, it was reported today that the rebels were reorganizing their forces for a double assault on the towns of Tela and Trujillo.

General Arturo Ordóñez, with some 200 armed followers, menaced the two important cities, according to late reports. The government dispatched 3,000 troops to the threatened area, hoping with that force to definitely stamp out the insurrection in the picturesque "banana coast" region.

D. P. AND L. CO. PROTESTS TWO PETITIONS FOR ELECTION

Two written protests, asking the city to ignore initiatory and referendum petitions designed to force a special election on whether the Citizens Public Service Co. or the Dayton Power and Light Co., shall be granted the electric service franchise here were filed with H. A. Higgins, clerk of City Commission, Monday by the Dayton company.

One objects to two petitions initiating ordinances submitted by the Citizens Public Service Co. The other questions the validity of the procedure followed to bring about referendum election on three ordinances awarding the franchise and contracts to the Dayton company.

City Auditor Higgins referred the protests to City Solicitor W. A. Miller, who revealed Tuesday his recommendations with regard to the protest pertaining to the initiatory petitions, but withheld comment upon the other. The solicitor advised the clerk to proceed as provided in the city charter.

That it is impossible to contract with a utility by an initiated ordinance because this would be in conflict with the state constitution was the first of the more important objections in the protest.

Solicitor Miller quoted an appellate court decision, which, he said, "virtually decided the constitution reserves to the city the right to legislate on utility questions by initiated ordinances, and provisions referred to in the protest are not controlling."

The second objection says that since there is a valid contract already existing between the D. P. and L. Co. and the city, the second of the two proposed initiated ordinances violates the company's contract rights.

This question, the solicitor asserted, is not for the clerk or the solicitor to pass upon. "The D. P. and L. Co. has its remedy (recourse to the courts) for violation of its contract rights, and the question before the clerk is whether the petitions now on file are valid, requiring a special election."

The third objection raised is that initiatory petitions cannot be used as a substitute for and in lieu of referendum petitions. "In our situation," Solicitor Miller declares, "the initiatory petitions cannot be construed as an attempt to substitute them for a referendum."

fy them to the board of elections at the earliest possible date.

The second protest lodged by the Dayton company argues that the proposed referendum election, although legal under the city charter, is invalidated by provisions of the constitution.

It claims that a referendum election could have been called within thirty days after passage of the three ordinances, but that it is now too late to adhere to the constitutional provisions, and that the charter does not govern the correct method to be followed in calling a referendum election and that the constitution is exclusive in such a matter.

"To hold an election pursuant to these petitions would be illegal, would involve a large expense to the city and would be a misapplication of funds," it is claimed.

City Commission, at its meeting Thursday night, is expected to hear a report on the sufficiency of the initiatory and referendum petitions now on file with the clerk.

RUTH NICKOLS WILL TRY OCEAN FLIGHT

NEW YORK, April 21.—Ruth Nichols, aviatrix, is going to try a solo flight across the Atlantic within a few months.

She believes that what a man can do a woman can do—so she plans a solo flight to Paris from Newfoundland.

Miss Nichols will use the same high-speed plane in which she established the transcontinental record.

Confirmation of Miss Nichols' ambition was made to International News Service today by her personal representative, Captain H. H. Bailey.

Miss Nichols plans to hop off from Newfoundland probably some time in June. The distance from Newfoundland to Paris is approximately 23,000 miles. Her plane recently attained a speed of 210 miles and hour. The trans-Atlantic flight is expected to be accomplished within fifteen hours.

BREAKS OWN RECORD

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 21.—By breaking her own record for endurance swimming, Mrs. Myrtle Huddleston today had established a new mark of eighty-seven hours and forty-eight minutes.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Judge not, that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.—St. Matthew vii, 1, 2.

ANOTHER EXPULSION

The saying that history repeats itself is a fallacy. Like the terrestrial globe, history travels no closed course but a spiral one. Nevertheless, there is precedent in the recent annals of Spain which imparts considerable significance to the refusal of Alfonso to abdicate, and to his declaration that he merely suspends the royal prerogative while awaiting the "true expression" of the Spanish people.

In September, 1868, Spain revolted against the scandalous reign of Queen Isabella and drove her from the throne. It was announced that the "spurious race of Bourbon" had disappeared forever.

But as one historian has observed, "the history of the six years from September, 1868, to December, 1874, proved that the political incapacity had not been cured." The period in Spain was a time of confusion and terrorism. Several experiments were tried, including a "republic," which had three presidents in a year, and almost innumerable changes of cabinet. Finally in desperation, responsible elements of the country called in the son of Isabella, who became Alfonso XII, and the father of the ruler who has just retired to France.

The immediate conditions under which the expulsion of Isabella and Alfonso XIII took place were widely different. The queen was thrown out because she was notorious and the country wanted to get rid of her, and was not thinking very much about the sort of substitute government it was going to get. Alfonso was obliged to quit because the Spaniards have an idea they want a republic, not because he is personally unpopular in the land. However, the extent to which the "political incapacity" of the Spanish people has been cured in the last fifty-seven years still remains an open question; and the fact that the Bourbons were called back once, after being repudiated much more violently than Alfonso has been repudiated, also stands and increases the flavor of the situation in the Iberian peninsula for those who are looking on from the outside.

25 YEARS PLAYGROUND WORK

A few days more than 25 years ago, a group of men and women met at the White House, at the invitation of President Roosevelt, and organized the Playground Association of America. The directors of that association have just met at the cabinet room of the White House in recognition of that anniversary.

Today about $33,500,000 is being spent annually by communities in the United States and Canada on public recreation programs. The average daily attendance at such playgrounds is 3,000,000 persons, of whom 2,500,000 are children. Mr. Roosevelt started a big thing.

The more playgrounds there are, the fewer jails we need. The boy who is working his head off to win games for his ball team, or who spends his spare hours studying new tennis and golf strokes, is not interested in criminal life. The smart crook who drops those insidious words in his ears about easy money, gets no attention from him.

The lot of the children in a crowded city district without playgrounds is pitiable. They can't play in the streets, on account of the automobile peril. What is there left for them but gang life, in which outwitting the police becomes their incentive? In many smaller towns, there isn't a single spot where the boys can play ball without being ordered off.

Just the mere opening up of a playground in such a neighborhood will cure much of this restlessness. But of course the playground will accomplish far more, if there is some supervision. Without oversight, many of the games will break up in childish rows. But with a reasonable amount of supervision, the congested neighborhood is turned from a center of restlessness and unhappiness for young people, into a community where young life has attained a wholesome objective.

RAISING FOOD PRODUCTS

The government is warning the growers of various food products, that they must reduce the amounts raised if they want decent prices. Wheat growers have been told this over and over again. A few days ago word was sent out to the potato growers, that the present indications are for a 10 per cent increase in that product, and if they persist in planting so much, they can expect the lowest prices for years.

After the government and other agencies spent many millions of dollars to educate the farmers in scientific methods which shall increase the product, then they have to be urged and even begged not to use this new productive power, and to hold down their production.

While many countries suffer from lack of food, our farmers suffer because they raise too much of it. Many farmers, hearing that the government is trying to keep the production down, will quietly plant a few extra acres, convinced that there will be a shortage. But they should have a care. Bigger crops mean more farm labor to be hired, which may take all the profit out of the crop.

However, farm labor will not cost so much this summer as it did up to 1929. Many farm boys who hid themselves to the cities and towns when the big wages were being paid, are back at the old homestead today, satisfied with good old home fare.

The 1931 farmer needs to keep his costs down, raise no more than he can sell for a fair price, and raise produce that the market demands. If he does not know what will sell, let him ask his banker or his state agricultural college or farm adviser. The whole country is interested in farm prosperity, since if the farmers can't buy, the factories can't run, and the store man can't sell his goods.

MUSIC AND RELIGION

The poet Lanier said of true music, "It is love in search of a word. I think it is also worship putting on her garment of praise." It is not strange that the highest musical development has been associated with religion. Faith, if it be real, calls forth the deepest and most enduring emotion of the human spirit. Music is an aid to faith because it utters that emotion in forms of beauty which linger in the memory long after they have faded on the ear. A church without music is like a bird without wings. The organ sends its uplifting waves of sound through the arches; the full-voiced choir enriches the air with stately anthems; the whole congregation worships heartily in psalms and hymns. The joy of Christian faith utters itself in noble music and an increase of joy in religion is needed in the church today.

The "richest man in India" is supposed to own the equivalent of a billion and a half of dollars. And the propagandists have been saying that it is the British who have "bled the country white."

A college professor says a baby does not smile until it is 68 days old. Now that he has found that out, what difference does it make?

The professors talk about the dangerous age for the pedestrians. Without doubt this is it, and for motorists, too.

This seems like spring, it is so unlike the sort we generally have in this corner of the country.

Will the present pinch teach people to demand economy in public expenditure hereafter? No, not in the least. As soon as times are easy again, everybody will forget about that, except a few persons who will be considered nuisances by those who return with renewed zest to the joy ride.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK.—Prof. Einstein got back home the other day and told reporters he didn't understand America.

That sort of events things up a bit.

WORKING OVERTIME

When you look around the country these days all you can see are a lot of lads in a huddle—commissioners they call 'em—wagging wise whiskers over crime an' likker and all that sort rot.

The New York Crime Commission "came out of it" the other day with a report which, among other things, blazoned the fact that in New York fake securities net racketeers approximately $400,000,000 a year.

That's a strange thing about fake securities. Selling a stock that has merit will never be classed among either the Indoor or the Outdoor Sports. It's hard work. But come along with a wad of phony securities that give off an odor like a dairy that's been struck by lightning and old John Q. Public will break a leg scrambling for his share.

If the average buyer of securities exercised the same sort of care in his purchase that he uses when he tries on a new hat, the Sour Stock Racketeers would be forced into some honest game—like politics.

VETERAN WARRBLER

New York's oldest chorus girl, in years and service, is Marie Savage. After forty-seven consecutive seasons of spouting, twenty-three of them on the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House, "Mother Savage," as she is known, still lolls like a lark.

She was first dubbed "Maman Savage," by the De Reszkes, Jean and Edouard, a generation ago at Covent Garden, London. The name stuck, and "Maman" she has since been to the Conreids, the Gattis, Cassazars, and to all the Melbas, Carusos and Jeritzas who have waxed and waned through the years.

GHOST OF THE PAST

I ran into a girl the other day—she really isn't a girl any longer—who used to be in the chorus of the Weber and Fields show, back around the turn of the century. You'd never think to see her today that once upon a time she had stood tibia to tibia with poor old Frankie Bailey, and fibula to fibula with Bonnie Maginn.

She still has her schoolgirl figure and her complexion is a match for any of the Grand Dames in the cold cream ads.

She's working behind the stock-and-bond counter of a Fifth avenue bazaar.

She has a small bank roll, her self respect, and a gauge on the present, gleaned from the past, that makes her a charming companion.

INTUITION VERSUS SCIENCE

The Metropolitan Museum's self-portrait, by Rembrandt, the authenticity of which was questioned, is said by X-ray experts to be "one of the most splendid portraits by the great Dutch master."

Funny, isn't it, to what strange devices "experts" pin their faith?

In determining the validity of a painting, the X-ray men, themselves, admit that their wonderful apparatus can never take the place of an emotional or intuitive process on the part of the critic.

In such matters the old principle still obtains:

"If she be not fair to me,
What care I how fair she be?"

KING'S XI

SENATOR KING PREDICTS MORE TROUBLE IN SPAIN BEFORE PEACE RETURNS

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Senator William H. King of Utah, in the closest contact through travel and personal observation of all lawmakers in Washington with the interplay of European political influences does not look to see much effect from King Alfonso's overthrow upon other old world governments.

The surviving monarchies in England, Belgium, and Scandinavia, he points out, already are more democratic than the average republic. Italy he sees as moving in the direction of a monarchy. Balkan royalties he does not, indeed, consider by any means secure on their thrones, but such developments as may conceivably result at almost any time in the enforced retirement of one or another of them will, he believes, arise from causes nearer home than from Spanish contagion.

The senator is not hopeful, however, that Spain will settle down to peaceful republicanism without considerable further friction and possibly bloodshed among warring factions.

"Moreover," he suggests, "the very necessity for the maintenance of order in the present crisis seems likely to bring to the front some strong man of the Republican group who—to uphold what he regards as republican principles—may justify himself in a resort to methods as dictatorial as Spain has known under its crowned rulers."

Senator King accurately recalls that Spanish monarchism has been tottering for years on what has appeared like the extreme verge of revolution. As a European correspondent I visited Madrid and Barcelona as long ago as 1909, during the revolt which ended with the execution of the then celebrated radical Francisco Ferrer, its leader.

While that particular uprising was crushed, to be sure, as good an authority as Alejandro Lerroux, who holds the portfolio of foreign affairs in the present Zamora provisional Republican government, told me it was a question of only a little time before a republic would be established.

Perhaps it is noteworthy that Miguel Maura, now Provisional President Zamora's minister of the interior, is a son of Antonio Maura, the premier who insisted upon Ferrer's execution in the face of pleas for mercy from liberals throughout the world—for Ferrer's reputation was international and his popularity immense among advanced thinkers.

Premier Maura, whom I met shortly after the uprising, had faced the firing squad, was a charming old man, but an ultra-conservative. The times, he said—for he freely admitted the strength of Republican sentiment—were desperate and an example was imperative.

Jose Canalejas, a liberal but not a Republican, who succeeded Maura as premier, told me a year or two later that he agreed with his predecessor as to the justice of Ferrer's condemnation, but said his sentence should have been commuted—that martyrizing him was a gross error which the Republicans would be certain to capitalize.

An anarchist subsequently assassinated Canalejas.

General Weyler figured prominently in the pacification of the especially turbulent Catalan provinces following the 1909 outbreak, as captain general of the Barcelona region, and curiously enough, he did so as a political liberal whom even the revolutionists liked.

The 1909 troubles were provoked by the Moroccan war, which lasted for years, and while small, nevertheless, was a terrible burden to poverty-stricken Spain. Since then there never has been a time when the monarchy was secure.

Alfonso's supposed popularity has been largely mythical. The monarchists touted him, but never considered him very bright mentally. He also was profitable as a glorified caper for resorts like Biarritz and San Sebastian, where he was pressed against enthusiastically.

The peaceful fashion in which he was permitted to leave, as Manuel was permitted to leave Portugal when deposed, is characteristic of the people of the Iberian peninsula.

They are rather free with the assassination of notables who actually are on the job and cannot apparently be eliminated otherwise, but seldom do what they deem any unnecessary killing.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am 17 and a junior in high school. I have a great affection for one of my teachers who is about six years older than I am. He treats me all right, but he does not show that deep affection for me that I would like him to show. I am with him quite a bit, but he has never asked me for a date. What would you do in such a case?"

"TROUBLED RUTH."

Am afraid there is not much you can do, Ruth. High school girls are quite likely to have crushes like yours on their young teachers, and the said teachers very seldom respond, having older girl friends in mind and thinking of their pupils as very young and immature.

You can study hard and show what a good mind you have, and do everything you can to make your work in class charming. Marian Marsh, a newly-risen screen star, Tribby, in case you don't remember your classics, was an artist's model who was famed for the beauty of her feet. But the story-book Tribby's feet couldn't have been any more beautiful than the modern Tribby's are. For if anyone possesses a pair of exquisitely-shaped feet, that Marsh girl does!

Perfectly formed feet are as rare as hen's teeth in this day and age. But a great deal can be done to improve the shapeliness of the feet by exercise. Specially designed exercises are also excellent for improving the healthiness and shapeliness of the feet.

Lie face downward on a bed and pretend that you are swimming, using the flutter-kick. This is done by pointing the toes, stiffening the knees and kicking the feet up and down from the hips.

Stand on your bare feet on a block of wood or small pile of books and let your toes protrude over the edge. Bend the toes upward as far as possible and then force them as far downward as you can.

Stand with bare feet parallel and six to eight inches apart. Rise on the toes, and keeping the ball of the foot on the floor, twist the heels inward and try to grasp the floor with the toes.

In my next article I shall discuss the third important factor in foot health—properly-fitting shoes.

Roast Leg of Lamb—Select a leg of lamb weighing from 4 to 5 pounds, preferably cut so as to include some of the loin. Wipe the meat with a damp cloth, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and rub well with flour. Lay the roast, skin down and cut flesh side up, on a rack in an open pan without water. Sear for 30 minutes in a hot oven. When the roast is seared and lightly browned, reduce the oven temperature to 300 degrees F., slow, and continue cooking without water and without a cover, allowing 20 minutes to the pound.

White Cake—Wellesley—Three-fourths cup shortening, one and one-fourth cups sugar, one-half teaspoon salt, two and two-thirds cups cake flour, two and one-fourth teaspoons baking powder, four egg whites, unbeaten; two-thirds cup cold water, one teaspoon vanilla. Cream shortening thoroughly, add sugar gradually, then the vanilla. Add the egg whites, one at a time, and beat until thoroughly blended. Sift the flour, salt and baking powder together and add alternately with the water. Turn batter into two nine-inch layer cake tins and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for about 30 minutes, decreasing heat if necessary. Put layers together with White Mountain cream and frost outside with same. When the frosting has set pour over it three ounces of bitter chocolate melted.

Constipation Due To Child's Diet

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

There is considerable variation in the reactivity of different children's intestines, but in general constipation in children is largely a matter of diet.

Sugars and starches are the ingredients of the child's diet, necessary to proper intestinal stimulation. When fats are in excess, especially when there is also too much protein or casein relatively, constipation results. This combination or rather lack of balance results in the formation of lime soaps in the intestine which have little if any stimulating effect on the bowel. Not infrequently an infant on this sort of regimen will pass hard lime lumps in the stool. Sometimes these tear a small fissure in the anus and the pain of this causes the child to suppress the call to stool and results in still more severe grades of constipation.

The carbohydrates, when given plentifully, ferment in the infant's bowel and furnish a gentle stimulus to peristaltic movement. This, of course, does not mean that excessive starch should be put in the diet. Simple sugars are usually completely absorbed, leaving no residue, but this is not true of other starches which leave a soft residue and are most likely to result in regular bowel evacuations.

Treatment of constipation in infancy and childhood can be overdone. If there is only one stool a day, or even if a day is sometimes missed and still the child is perfectly healthy in every other way, gaining weight and growing, no treatment is indicated.

The simplest and usually most effective, form of treatment is the addition of starches to the diet. For instance, one of the liquid malt extracts, Fruit Juices and, for older children, cooked fruits and vegetables are indicated. Prune juice is more effective than orange juice. Apple sauce is for older infants and children only, as it is likely to cause too much "colic" in young infants.

A good amount of cereals, smooth wheat cereal, farina, oatmeal, barley, are all indicated for the child after the age of six months strained at first, and as the child grows older without being strained.

Drug treatment should never be employed as a habit. Only at intervals, or when infection or other illness tends to make the bowel sluggish. Mineral oil or milk of magnesia are the best cathartics for children when any are required. Mechanical methods of stimulation as by glycerine suppositories or enemata are occasionally indicated, but here again a habit should not be formed. A well-known authority in children's diseases says, "The development of the enema habit is almost as bad as the cathartic habit."

The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Beware The Gold Digger

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am a young man in my twenties and am up against a problem. I would like to know whether a girl prefers a boy friend who likes to go to night clubs and is continuously running around or whether she prefers a boy who enjoys home life and is ambitious.

"I have been away, traveling since I was 16, and am new to town life.

"SAILOR."

Much depends on the kind of girl friend you choose. Sailor, I should say that the type of girl most worth while is the kind that prefers the home type of boy who is ambitious. Of course any girl likes some fun once in a while, so ask her to go to a show or dance and some place to eat afterwards occasionally, but don't squander all your money on night clubs and "sich."

And if you meet a girl who never wants to stay at home or talk seriously, and who is more interested in helping you spend your money than to save it, make up your mind that she isn't the kind of friend you want to cultivate, and drop her.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am 17 and a junior in high school. I have a great affection for one of my teachers who is about six years older than I am. He treats me all right, but he does not show that deep affection for me that I would like him to show. I am with him quite a bit, but he has never asked me for a date. What would you do in such a case?"

"TROUBLED RUTH."

Am afraid there is not much you can do, Ruth. High school girls are quite likely to have crushes like yours on their young teachers, and the said teachers very seldom respond, having older girl friends in mind and thinking of their pupils as very young and immature.

You can study hard and show what a good mind you have, and do everything you can to make your work in class charming. Marian Marsh, a newly-risen screen star, Tribby, in case you don't remember your classics, was an artist's model who was famed for the beauty of her feet. But the story-book Tribby's feet couldn't have been any more beautiful than the modern Tribby's are. For if anyone possesses a pair of exquisitely-shaped feet, that Marsh girl does!

Perfectly formed feet are as rare as hen's teeth in this day and age. But a great deal can be done to improve the shapeliness of the feet by exercise. Specially designed exercises are also excellent for improving the healthiness and shapeliness of the feet.

Lie face downward on a bed and pretend that you are swimming, using the flutter-kick. This is done by pointing the toes, stiffening the knees and kicking the feet up and down from the hips.

Stand on your bare feet on a block of wood or small pile of books and let your toes protrude over the edge. Bend the toes upward as far as possible and then force them as far downward as you can.

Stand with bare feet parallel and six to eight inches apart. Rise on the toes, and keeping the ball of the foot on the floor, twist the heels inward and try to grasp the floor with the toes.

In my next article I shall discuss the third important factor in foot health—properly-fitting shoes.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Art (Whitman) Shires, the cockiest baseball player in captivity, is with the Milwaukee Brewers this season but if he expects to take the American Association by storm with his ready wit, he may be disappointed.

He has a rival and the second clown, Walter Christensen by name, is also a Brewer. This complicates matters and Arthur the Great has been encountering stiff opposition.

Christy, who was with the Reds for several seasons, has been entertaining fans around the minor and major leagues for many seasons with his acrobatic catches and other funny antics and, according to at least one baseball writer, he does not intend to step down and give the stage to the Great Shires.

As one scribe puts it: "Over at Hot Springs, the two funny men battled for the fans' popularity. And we are not betraying any secrets when we tell you that the Minneapolis and Milwaukee scribes believe that, to date, Christy has the edge. Shires is a wisecracker and appeals for the laughter with his ready wit. Christy pops wise and can do some clowning antics to amuse the customers. So the two funny men are in for a battle and they may stir up some discussion."

During an exhibition game this spring Shires is credited with pulling a fast one. He was not having a very good day facing the fast ball pitching of Earnshaw, who was toiling for the Millers. A few of the fans were on him, but Shires only laughed.

"I know how you feel," he shouted. "I don't blame you for getting excited over seeing me for a buck. I know how it is. I felt the same way first time I saw Lindbergh."

The nomination for being one of baseball's drollest humorists went last week to Jim Lindsey, relief pitcher for the Cardinals. When Dizzy Dean couldn't stand up like a man and take a bawling out from Gabby Street and announced that he was going home, Lindsey remarked:

"It's the first time in National League history a team ever lost thirty games in one day." (Dizzy had boasted he would win thirty games for the Cards this season.)

Ring Lardner, former sports writer and at present better known as a humorist, in one of his syndicated articles recently, unburdened himself of the following quip:

"Brooklyn would have won the pennant last year only its manager, Wilbert Robinson, was so big he filled the bench that the players had to stand up between innings and were all worn out by the middle of September."

Another scribe, however, sprung an even better one when he remarked that Babe Herman, slugging Brooklyn outfielder, was getting his spring training by "running around Uncle Wilbert Robinson several times every day."

Ball Yard Banter

There are other items outside the question of which teams will win the pennants bothering baseball magnates this season. A lot of theories will be given a test.

There's the new ball. Will it cut down slugging? Will it give pitchers a better chance?

Answers to these questions create more questions. If heavy slugging is cut down will the fans go for the less hits and tighter ball games? Or do they want slugging retained? Only the box office can answer and supposing the answer is an emphatic "yes" to that last query? It would be a costly answer.

Then there is the sacrifice fly rule which has been abolished, a move which will hurt many a batting average. Will it prove a logical move?

Add to this the really big question—will the depression seriously harm baseball receipts this season? Major league magnates seem agreed that it will not. Big time baseball is by far the cheapest of all major sports to view—from the spectators' standpoint. This is greatly in its favor.

And night ball—will the arc lamps again come to the rescue of minor league clubs as was the case in 1930?

If you can answer all those questions correctly now you are smarter than all baseball magnates together.

Lester Price, an Eagle Scout and junior assistant scoutmaster of the troop, gave a talk telling of the troop's history, its activities and advancement of members. Exhibitions in first aid and signalling were given by several of the Scouts.

Rain Triumphs Over Softball Teams Here

SCHEDULED OPENER POSTPONED MONDAY BY SOAKED DIAMOND

Fans Turn Out In Vain; Twin-Bill Is Necessary

After more than a week of well-nigh perfect weather, a drenching shower which assumed the proportions of a young cloudburst, soaked the diamond at Cox Athletic Field thoroughly Monday afternoon, necessitating postponement of the opening softball game of the 1931 season between the champion Lang Chevrolet Co. and The Downtown Country Club teams.

The April shower materialized about 2:30 o'clock and soon converted the softball diamond into an unplayable condition. The Softball Commission did not definitely call the game off until about fifteen minutes before the contest was scheduled to begin at 6:30 p. m. and by this time the bleachers were well filled with fans who turned out in the forlorn hope the game might materialize despite the adverse conditions.

The decision of members of the commission was well taken, however, in view of the fact it commenced to rain again shortly afterward.

As a result of the unfortunate postponement, this game will of necessity be played off as part of a double-header when the two teams meet again May 25 in the second round. Both halves of the twin bill on this date will be limited to seven innings.

Providing the weather is more favorable, the current softball season will be inaugurated at Cox field Tuesday night at 6:30 o'clock when Central High School and St. Prigid clash in the opener of the American League's schedule.

JURY HEARS DAMAGE CASE HERE TUESDAY

Jury trial of a $10,750 damage suit filed by Thomas A. Wakeley, farmer, against Moses Cramer, Dayton, chief executive and general manager of The American Loan and Realty Co., and John W. Whitaker, an employee, was begun in Common Pleas Court Tuesday. Wakeley charges false arrest. He claims he was arrested on an affidavit filed in Municipal Court by Whitaker, accusing him of disposing of mortgaged property, and that two days later the case was dismissed without prosecution and without a hearing. Attorney Frank H. Dean represents the plaintiff and Attorney George H. Smith is defense counsel.

RE-PAINT STREETS

Notwithstanding the rainy weather and cooler temperatures which have prevailed during the last two days, signs of spring are noticeable. The first sure indication came when the city had the auto parking lanes and no parking zones in the business district repainted. Not only that but the county is engaged in repainting the sidewalk in front of the west side of the Court House.

"WE MUST LEARN HOW TO LOSE!"

So Says Mrs. Knute Rockne In First Interview Since Death Of Famous Notre Dame Coach

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first interview with Mrs. Knute Rockne, since her husband's death. In it she discusses the future of her family.

By Central Press
SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 21.—On cross-barred fields not far from a handsome Sunny-mead district of South Bend, brown leather ovals arch and soar in the pale April sunshine. A pattern of blue-clad figures is in constant change, as a horde of boys line up, collide, run this way and that. Whistles shrill everywhere.

Knute Rockne The Notre Dame football squad is in spring practice.

Seated at a dining room table in the cottage, a small, dark woman is writing a letter. Others, finished, are before her. Her eyes are those of a woman hurt by a great sorrow, a sudden, stunning devastating grief. The April sunlight reveals that she is writing a note of gratitude for an expression of sympathy. A tragic task—but her hand is firm, the pen strokes swift and sure.

Mrs. Knute Rockne, the mother of a Viking's sons, is carrying on.

SHE LOOKS UP. The gesture is significant. The sport writer, the first to ask her what plans she has for her little family, now that Knute Rockne, the great football coach and the provider and protector of this home, has passed on, senses the symbolic. The great blow has not blinded this courageous woman to the great, new responsibilities which are hers. She looks up—and forward—to the future for her little family.

"We'll carry on," she speaks slowly. "Knute would expect us to. So we must."

"The three boys and Mary Jeanne must grow up and become good useful citizens. Just what are my plans? How can I say—at this time?"

She arises and goes to the window and stares out into brightness of a young spring day.

MRS. ROCKNE turned back from the sunshine. "Of course," she continued, "I'd like to see the boys follow in their father's footsteps and become good athletes. Knute and I often talked of their future."

"We never thought Bill (the eldest) would develop athletically because of severe burns he suffered when very young and which may prove a handicap. Junior is different. He has shown ability. I hope he goes on Jackie, of course, is too small yet to discover his inclinations."

"I surely hope to be able to send the boys through Notre Dame. There can be no other school for us."

There was a rush of small feet. Rockne dog, Villona Nox Von Mail, an imported German police dog, bounded into the room. Round of face and blond of hair, Mary Jeanne bears a striking resemblance to her famous father.

"THE MOTHER'S eyes clouded as Jackie reached her side. "This is a particularly hard day for me," she said. "This is Jackie's fifth birthday. Knute and I always went down town together to buy his presents."

Mrs. Rockne reached over and stroked the sleek head of Villona Nox Von Mail. The dog looked up to her.

"Poor thing," she said. "He knows something is all wrong. He's been very quiet lately."

What did Mrs. Rockne think of Notre Dame's football future?

"Mr. Anderson and Mr. Chevigny are good coaches," she said. "I believe they will have winning teams. I only hope they get the support Knute got. Especially from the sport writers. They were fair to Knute and I hope they are fair to his successors. Knute was always grateful for this."

MRS. ROCKNE did not tell—as friends do—how her own fine courage brought her, without a collapse, through her recent ordeal. How she steeled herself so that her heartbroken children might follow her example. How each morning she attends mass in the Church of the Sacred Heart, where six years before Knute Rockne embraced the faith. Often, one of "Rock's boys" comes from the campus to drive her there and escort her home.

"I always wanted Notre Dame to win," said Mrs. Rockne, as the interview closed. "I hoped they would win every game, though Knute used to say good sometimes came out of defeat. That was strange, coming from a man who won so many times. He knew one cannot always win."

"Now we," she looked at her children, "must learn how to lose!"

JESSE HARPER MADE DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS AT NOTRE DAME

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 21.—Jesse Harper will return May 1 to Notre Dame to "carry on" for one of his most brilliant pupils, Knute Rockne, who was killed recently in an airplane crash.

Harper's appointment to succeed the famous football coach as director of athletics was announced by Father O'Donnell yesterday. Harper, who coached at Notre Dame from 1913 to 1918 when Rockne was a sensational end, learned his football at the University of Chicago under the venerable A. A. Staggs. He left here in 1918 to supervise a cattle ranch at Ashland, Kansas, where he now resides. Rockne was Harper's assistant in 1914 and retained that position until he succeeded him.

Harper is given credit for having brought the backfield shift to Notre Dame, a play which later was developed by Knute Rockne.

JAMES F. GIBBONS CALLED BY DEATH

DAYTON, April 21.—James F. Gibbons, 49, managing director of the Gibbons Hotel and prominent Daytonian, died in his apartments at the hotel Tuesday morning at 6 o'clock after a two years' illness. He had been actively in charge of the hotel until forced to give up his duties because of ill health two years ago.

Mr. Gibbons was the son of the late M. J. Gibbons Sr., and in his early life was in the plumbing business with his father. He had been in the hotel business since 1922.

BUSH LEAGUERS SET PACE FOR VETERANS IN BATTING SO FAR

Vosmek Hits .636 And Al Simmons' Average Is .227

NEW YORK, April 21.—The bush league flowers that bloom in the spring may be withered away by June, but they certainly are setting a merry pace for the veterans in the big leagues with the first week of the season written into the records.

Unofficial batting averages compiled by the writer, including yesterday's games, show that five rookies are hitting the ball harder than the recognized leading sluggers who have been through the fire of at least one campaign in the majors.

The five young hopefuls who are running wild with the willow are Joe Vosmek of Cleveland, Ernest Lombardi of Brooklyn, Lev of the Browns and Walker brothers of Detroit. They have rolled up the following averages:

Vosmek, .636; Lombardi, .615; Lev, .450; Harvey Walker, .444; Gerald Walker, .444.

This quintet is showing the way to such proven sluggers who have compiled the following marks:

Wally Berger, Braves, .423; Ernie Orsatti, Cardinals, .360; Lew Fonseca, Cleveland, .360; Chuck Klein, Phillies, .346.

Behind the first five rookies come six more first-year men who also have compiled gaudy averages as follows:

Larry Bettencourt, Browns, .364; Johnny Vergez, Giants, .357; Jenkins, Browns, .353; Buzz Arlett, Phillies, .348; Red Worthington, Braves, .346; Mickey Health, Cincinnati, .333.

Last year's batting champs have gotten off to a poor start. Bill Ry of the Giants is hitting .276 and Al Simmons of the Athletics is guilty of a .227 average.

Weak stickwork by Cochrane, Fox and Todd, also has hurt the A's. Cochrane is batting .208, Fox .167 and Todd, his understudy, only .058.

Hack Wilson is tumbling over his 240 average and Rogers Hornsby is unable to bowl him out, for the Rajah is hitting at exactly the same rate.

Architect Claims "Now" Is Best Time To Build

REDUCED MATERIAL AND LABOR COSTS NOW BENEFIT BUILDER

Economical Construction Possible For Home Or Business Building; Work Also Serves To Lay Depression Ghost

If there was ever a "time" to build, now is that time.

The person who undertakes a building project now, benefits from:

- 1.—Reduced material costs;
- 2.—Better labor return;
- 3.—Aiding the return to prosperity.

So says E. P. Musselman, Dayton architect, who is well-known here as his professional services are frequently required in this city.

"A saving in building costs of from 25 to 35 per cent or even more may be effected now, over only a few months ago," says Mr. Musselman.

"Materials," he says, "have been reduced from 15 to 20 per cent. Material costs, like the prices of other things, depend on the law of supply and demand. Low demand has brought down prices."

"Where labor is organized the same wage rate prevails as formerly, but widespread unemployment, causing anxiety among craftsmen to keep their jobs, has resulted in increased work and efficiency, actually representing a labor cost reduction of from 10 to 15 per cent."

Where labor is unorganized, wage cuts have been placed in effect resulting in a reduction of labor costs of approximately 15 per cent," says Mr. Musselman.

The architect points out that government building projects now contemplated will eventually return many unemployed to the ranks of toilers, increasing the demand and raising labor costs. The builder who launches his projects now, before this condition has been felt, will benefit from present prices.

Estimating a total of forty-five million workers in the United States, Mr. Musselman points out that with five million unemployed, approximately forty million are still working.

These forty million, through fear of unemployment and anxiety over the future of their jobs, have been reluctant to spend freely, anticipating "hard times."

With a stimulus now in building operations many of these workers, especially craftsmen, will be returned to the ranks of job holders. The millions already employed, encouraged by this sign of returning prosperity, will have restored confidence. No longer anxious over their own jobs, they will resume the spending that was an indication of the recent prosperity of the nation and that made the lots of the workman in America the most comfortable of any similar group in the world.

Thus the person contemplating a building project either business or residence, will find now an unusually attractive time to undertake his work, serving, as it will, the double purpose of reacting to the benefit of himself and the public at large.

Under no circumstances permit the roots to be exposed to the sun, to drying winds or to frost. One is as bad as the other.

Put them down cellar in the washtub and turn on the water, or heel them into a shaded hole in the empty flower bed. Garages are usually poor places to put them, being ordinarily hot and stuffy.

When you finally do put on your last year's straw hat and cotton gloves for the planting operations, consider these pointers for a moment before starting in:

Make Holes Wide
Make the holes wide enough so all roots may lay flat, not curled around. Cramping of roots especially in clay soils is almost as bad as planting them in an earthenware pot. Roots have a hard time spreading.

Sandy and gravelly soils have ample drainage. But clay needs a few rocks or other bulky debris, underneath, so water will not stand on the roots.

You've invested from 30 cents to $10 on a tree, let us say. Your best investment is assurance that it will live. The best insurance is rich soil around the hair roots of the plant. Take it out of the flower bed if necessary. Mix well rotted manure or peat moss with average loam to improve it.

Remember the shrubs will be on an invalid's diet for first year after transplanting to its soil cannot be too rich, and certainly must not be barren of all plant food.

Determining the Depth
Note on the main stem of your bush, just where the soil came on it when it stood in the nursery. A muddy collar will determine that. Plant the bush no deeper than that and be sure to allow for settling.

First a half bushel at least of that good soil goes in next to the root system, then the best of the soil that came out of the hole, and the sods from it, and finally the coarser subsoil.

Roots, remember, must snuggle intimately into their new positions. Tamp it thoroughly. Probably more plants are lost for lack of this intimacy than from any other flaw in their transplanting. Prof. C. J. Hunn of Cornell University, has stated.

Let the hose run for ten minutes a day on each plant for at least a week.

Don't let weeds sprout up around new plantings. Mulch around the stalk and for a foot or two away, all around, with straw, grass clippings, peat moss or old manure.

Most shrubs do not need much fertilizer, and young ones can't imbibe much of it and thrive, any more than infants can take strong liquor and prosper.

REFRIGERATION
SALES MOUNTING

More electric refrigerators will be placed in American homes this year than in any previous year, according to the National Electric Light Association, which has launched a co-operative campaign to sell 1,000,000 machines during 1931.

The nation-wide campaign is being participated in by electric light and power companies, manufacturers, distributors, and dealers; and advertising plans are by far the most extensive in the history of the industry. This is the first year in which a concerted sales effort has been made on such a scale.

At the beginning of this year, there were about 2,600,000 electric refrigerators in homes of this country. The following figures are cited to show the growth in sales of electric refrigerators:

Year No. of Sales

1923 16,000

1924 24,000

1925 75,000

1926 245,000

1927 365,000

1928 468,000

1929 620,000

1930 775,000

(1931) (1,000,000)

The increase expected this year over last year is 29 per cent, which figure approximates the increase of 1930 and 1929.

CLIFTON

Installation services for Mr. Robert French of Pittsburgh Xenia Theological Seminary will be held at the United Presbyterian Church Monday evening, April 27. Rev. L. L. Gray of Jamestown, Ohio, will moderate the meeting and preach the sermon. Mr. French will begin his ministry Sabbath, April 26.

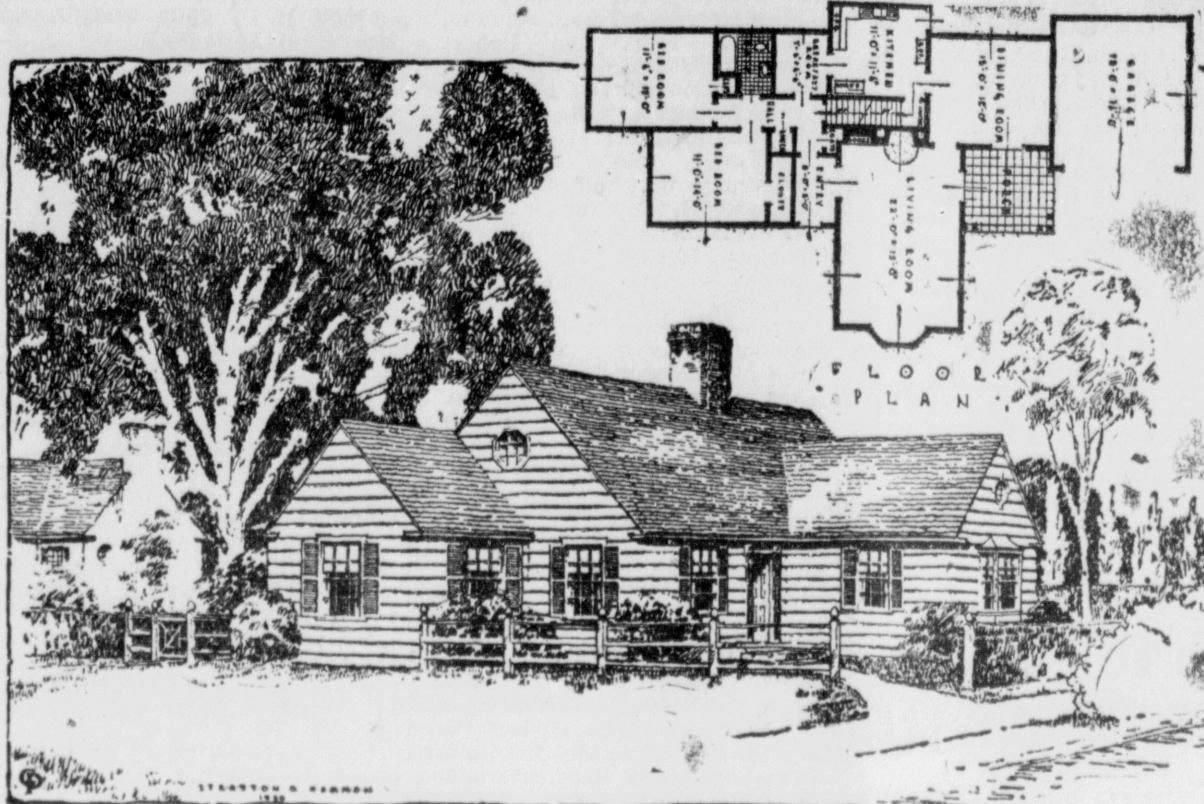

Mrs. Robert Choate and twin daughters, Margaret and Elizabeth, moved from Asheville, Ohio, to spend the week end with her mother, Mrs. Mary Collins.

Rev. Mr. Daniels of Memorial Church, Dayton, preached Sunday for the Presbyterians.

A number of Presbyterian women will attend the fifty-fourth meeting of Dayton Presbyterial Society of Missions, Tuesday and Wednesday, at Dayton, Ohio.

NO FIRE AFTER ALL!

All available fire apparatus rushed to the scene about 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon in response to an alarm that the roof of the American Restaurant, W. Main St., was ablaze. It was a false alarm, however, as smoke issuing from a chimney had been incorrectly interpreted to mean the roof was on fire. Trash was being burned in the furnace.

Green and white bungalow in colonial style.

Design Selected for Central Press By Architectural Research Bureau. The American Home Magazine

The "Cottage small by a waterfall," so popular in song a few years ago, might easily be designed like this charming bungalow in the colonial style.

The architect suggests that the exterior woodwork be white and the shutters apple green which will endear it still further to the popular heart for who has not dreamed at one time or another of a little white house with green shutters somewhere in the country? The roof may be of weathered brown or green shingles, and the chimney should be painted white.

The estimated cubical contents of this bungalow are 32,000 cubic feet, which, at 5 cents a cubic foot would make the total cost approximately $17,000.

The floor plans of the house are of the rambling type, always a delightful feature of the bungalow design. The living room and one bed room each occupy a wing and thus are assured of three exposures. The other bedroom is a corner room, and the dining room opens on the porch.

The skilful planning has made the entrance hall readily accessible to the living room, dining room and sleeping quarters of the house. The bathroom, close to the bedrooms, may also be used as a downstairs lavatory.

If one wishes to build a larger house or to add to it in time, there is enough room on the second floor for two more bedrooms and a bath.

HYMIE MARTIN WILL BEGIN PRISON TERM

CLEVELAND, April 21.—Hyman "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin, convicted slayer of former Councilman William E. Potter, today was to be removed to Ohio penitentiary to begin his life sentence without hope of pardon.

As Martin prepared to make the journey to the Ohio capitol, police here received word from Pittsburgh that Louis Frishman, one of Hymie's pals who testified for him in a habeas corpus hearing in the Pennsylvania city, had been arrested there on charges of perjury.

Frishman allegedly perjured himself when he gave an alibi for Martin's whereabouts on the night of February 3, when Potter was slain.

The W. M. M. S. of St. John's A. M. E. Church had a special program Sunday at 3 p. m. given by the ways and means committee. The Rev. James Whitfield and choir of Ross Chapel A. M. E. Church were present and rendered valuable services by his able discourse and the excellent singing of the choir.

Mrs. Carrie Luke of Cleveland, O., was a week end guest of her mother, Mrs. Ida Robb and husband of E. Church St. and her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Varner of Fair St.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thomas and niece, Miss Edna Ross of Columbus, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Washington of E. Market St.

Rev. A. A. Hughey of Hillsboro, A. M. E. Church filled the pulpit Sunday afternoon at the First A. M. E. Church. His choir was present also, and added much to the services by its splendid singing.

Miss Mildred Cleage of E. Market St., visited her father, Mr. Hosea Cleage, who is ill at the National Military Home at Dayton, Sunday.

Rev. E. Lewis and his noted choir of Lebanon, were at the Middletown Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, and proved themselves worthy of the crowded house that greeted them.

Rev. C. O. Greenfield and the Junior choir of Zion Baptist Church opened the week's meeting Monday night at the First A. M. E. Church, which was enjoyed by all present.

The Rev. G. A. Martin and choir of Middletown Church will greet the audience tonight.

Mrs. Lottie Barksdale, Mrs. Louise Douthett and son Earl, and Mrs. Jerome Cleage of Cleveland, O., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Johnson and their niece, Miss Mildred Cleage of E. Market St., Sunday.

Sunday will be "Friendship Day" at First A. M. E. Church. In the morning a short program will be rendered in connection with music by the Junior choir with Mr. Martin of Wilberforce director. At 1 o'clock the ladies of the "Lend a Hand Circle" will serve a friendship dinner, and the day will conclude with a program by the League and sermonette by the pastor, the Rev. S. A. Amos. Music by the senior choir.

The Rev. and Mrs. P. H. Hill, and and christened "Justice of Hungary." The pilot will shortly go to Detroit. Captain Endresz planned to make the flight last year but was forced by circumstances to postpone it.

NAPOLEONIC
PARIS—A large sum is expected to be paid for what is supposed to be an authentic Napoleonic manuscript to be sold shortly at Montreux. It consists of the memoirs of the great general written while he was a prisoner at St. Helena. They are written on long sheets of parchment which bear the mark of a well-known paper mill of Napoleon's day. The text consists largely of the banished emperor's bitter and melancholy memories of his former glory.

PLANS OCEAN FLIGHT
BUDAPEST—A new attempt to cross the Atlantic and fly from Detroit to Budapest will be made at the end of May or early in June by Captain N. Endresz, former Hungarian war-ace, according to Budapest newspaper reports. The plane to be used in the flight has been rebuilt in America, it is said, MARYSVILLE, O., April 21.—A baseball game that ended in a 13-inning 1 to 1 tie in 1917 was definitely settled for all time today. Reorganizing after a long lay-off, New Dover and Delaware independent teams met at New Dover and the visiting club won 8 to 7.

PARIS, April 21.—Ralph Barton, prominent American caricaturist, was divorced here by his wife, the former Germaine Tailleferre, Parisian artist.

Mrs. Barton charged desertion. The couple was married at Ridgefield, Conn., on December 3, 1926. Barton, a native of Kansas City, was created a chevalier of the Legion of Honor in 1927.

C. E. ARBOGUST

C. E. Arbogust, who has served during the last year as vice-president of the Xenia Recreation Association, was elevated to the presidency for the coming year at the annual reorganization meeting of the association Tuesday, T. H. Zell is the retiring head of the group, which was created for the purpose of governing the development of Shawnee Park.

Other officers elected for 1931 are: E. A. Kern, first vice-president; S. N. McClellan, second vice-president, and Mrs. C. A. Kelble, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Kern had previously served as secretary and Mrs. Kelble as treasurer, but it was decided to combine the two offices.

Karl R. Babb, S. N. McClellan and Miss Sarah Hagar, directors whose terms had expired, were re-elected for three years each. Nine directors constitute the board, the terms of three expiring every year. A discussion of ways and means of financing continued maintenance of the park as a center of civic interest featured the session. The association is also appealing to the public to safeguard all park equipment this summer.

PURSUING BANDITS

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Three navy transport airplanes today were ordered to fly to Managua, Nicaragua, and transport the native national guard, offered by American Marines, from the west to the east coast of Nicaragua, so they can pursue the bandits who have killed a number of Americans and other foreigners.

Film Romance Rift

The engagement was announced in December, setting at rest rumors that Gertrude would bestow her hand and heart upon one of the popular young attaches of the British embassy staff who, it is alleged, has been nursing a broken heart since her choice was made known.

Neither confirmation nor denial is given by Pauline Starke, film actress, to reports that she and her husband, Jack White, also of the films, soon will be legally separated. Miss Starke has just returned to her Hollywood home from a California sanitarium and White has been in New York. They were married in 1927. Both are above.

HERE COMES THE BRIDE

In Washington's Most Important Wedding; Allen Hoover Was In Attendance

Gertrude Lamont and her fiancé, Charles Saltzman Allan Hoover, inset

By RILLA SCHRODER

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Not content with being the "cabinet bride" of the season, Gertrude Lamont, slim young daughter of the socially prominent and officially important Robert Patterson Lamonts, has stolen the spotlight entirely away from the other capital brides with the announcement that Allan Hoover, young son of President and Mrs. Hoover, is to be a member of her wedding party. Miss Lamont's father is secretary of commerce, President Hoover's old "job."

"Trudie," as her chums know her, is to be married May 2 to Charles Eskridge Saltzman of New York, son of Major General and Mrs. Charles McKinley Saltzman of Washington.

The engagement was announced in December, setting at rest rumors that Gertrude would bestow her hand and heart upon one of the popular young attaches of the British embassy staff who, it is alleged, has been nursing a broken heart since her choice was made known.

Popular in Smart Set
A debutante of two seasons ago, Trudie has been one of the most popular members of her youthful but exceedingly smart set. Her coming out party, staged at the ultra-fashionable Montgomery Country Club, was the gayest of the "bud" events of her debut years, and she has since maintained her reputation as a young lady with a decided flair for doing the right thing at the correct moment.

The family came to Washington two years ago from Chicago, where the Pattersons and the Lamonts have been regarded socially "ace high" for several generations. The parents of the bridegroom-to-be, Major General and Mrs. Saltzman, have made their home in Washington since the retirement of the Spanish-American war hero from active service. Charles is their only son and is, himself, a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point. He served in the army until last summer, when he resigned to go into business in New York.

Was White House Aide
For several months prior to his resignation Saltzman was one of the aides at the White House, and it was during his period of service there that the romance developed. The youthful couple, however, kept their plans a secret, and only Trudie's closest friends knew of the match, while capital society was busy rumormongering her coming betrothal to the Britisher.

The news broke just a few days after the congressional reception at the White House this season. One of the throng at the executive mansion that evening, however, observed the erect young chap who was her escort "for the evening." And he, incidentally, shared her smiles that evening.

Xenia School Girl Sings In Chorus At Des Moines

MISS NAOMI HENKEL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Henkel, N. King St., and a junior at Central High School, has returned home from Des Moines, Ia., where she was a member of the North Central High School Chorus, which sang at the North Central Music Supervisors' Conference Friday evening.

The chorus was composed of three hundred high school students from Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota and Minnesota. Miss Henkel had the distinction of being the only Ohio representative in the group.

Previous to Friday evening's concert the chorus was in training from Monday until Friday. Tryouts were also held during the five days and Miss Harriette Toren, soprano, Lincoln, Neb., and Robert Beresford, bass, Ames, Ia., were adjudged the best individual singers. By winning this distinction they will each receive a year's tuition in Westminster Choir School, Ithaca, N. Y., under John Finley Williamson.

Miss Henkel has studied voice several years under William Hugh Miller, former music director in the public schools. She is a member of the high school glee club and has taken part in its programs. She was accompanied on the trip to Des Moines by her mother and Carl Harner.

YELLOW SPRINGS

The Girl Scouts are selling tickets for a card party to be held Wednesday evening at the Antioch Academy, Bridge "500" and euchre are to be played. Refreshments will be served. Miss Miriam Dickinson is captain of the Girl Scouts. The sophomore class entertained the seniors and juniors of Bryan High School with a treasure hunt in the Glen Friday evening. The classes met at the high school at 5:45 o'clock and followed the trail from there into the Glen where refreshments were served.

For the benefit of the colored nursery school the Yellow Springs Dramatic Club will present three one-act plays Friday, May 15, in the Opera House.

The Parents-Teachers Association regular monthly meeting will be held Friday afternoon in the high school auditorium. All members are urged to be present as the election of officers will take place at this time. The W. C. T. U. will meet with Mrs. Henry Hill on North College St., Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Clara Funderburg will have charge of the program. Funeral services of Mrs. Mary

RETIRED ADMIRAL INGERSOLL IS DEAD

LA PORTE, Ind., April 21.—Rear Admiral Royal Rodney Ingersoll, 83, United States Navy retired, died at his home here today. The veteran had been unconscious for six days and had had no nourishment since last Thursday. Admiral Ingersoll was a fighter in three major wars.

DIAMOND ARRESTED

CATSKILL, N. Y., April 21.—Jack (Legs) Diamond, famous racketeer, was arrested today at his mountain retreat at Acra and brought to the Greene County jail here. He is charged with atrocious assault on complaint of Grover Parks, truck driver of Cairo, who says he was attacked and beaten in his garage.

GRANTED REPRIEVE

COLUMBUS, O., April 21.—Gov. George White today granted James Romeo, of Canton, a 30-day reprieve from the electric chair where he was scheduled to die Friday night for his alleged participation in the robbery and murder of Charles Riblett, bank guard and former Canton police chief.

No More Neuritis In Arms, Neck, Legs or Thighs

If you want to get rid of the agonizing pains of neuritis, neuralgia, sciatica or rheumatism, just apply Tysol to the affected parts and see how quickly all misery will cease. Tysol is a powerfully penetrating absorbent, soothing and healing in its action, which goes in through the pores and quickly reaches the burning, itching nerves. Those stubborn pains in the back of the neck, about the shoulder blade, face or head, in the forearm and fingers, or extending down the thigh to the toe tips, will soon disappear. Cramping of the muscles will stop and you will no longer be bothered with soreness, swelling, stiffness, numbness or tenderness of the joints and ligaments. Tysol is not an ordinary liniment or ointment, but a scientific new emollient that is entirely different from anything you have ever used. Don't suffer any longer. Get a supply of Tysol at any good drug store. Always on hand at

Chanel Picks Models for Paris Jobs

Famed French Stylist Chose Twelve Girls From Among the Sixty That Paraded Before Her—Ten Will Accompany Her to Paris—Two Refuse Contracts.

These twelve girls picked as ideal models by Mme. Gabrielle Chanel, will have opportunity to model in the most exclusive gown shops in gay Paris, when they will accompany the famous style expert to France. From left to right the girls are: (first) Christine Maple, Frances S. Crosby, Margaret L. Boneton, Peggy Rooney, Cecile Clancy and Harriet Hagman. (Second row) Carol Leslie, Claire Coulter, Gladys Renick, Leone Sousa, Betty May and Rose Walker.

By ALICE ALDEN
NEW YORK, April 21. — Be a model girl and see Paris.

That is if you are the model type that can wear a Chanel creation that will lure huge sums from the pocketbooks of clients who think that it's the dress and not the mannequin.

Chanel, on her first visit to America, has been profoundly impressed by the American girl. Not by the movie star, the society girl or the professional beauty but by the average girl who lends glamor and enchantment to our daily life. And it is her quest for such girls that has kept Gabrielle Chanel busy during the last few days of her stay in New York. After all Poiret and Jean Patou took back with them American mannequins and found them overwhelmingly successful, so why not the same type of decoration for the house of Chanel?

As may be imagined, Mlle. Chanel found no dearth of applicants for a job that called for a year's stay in Paris and the opportunity to wear gorgeous clothes. Besides, every girl has read of the wonderful matches made by these American mannequins, how they came to the city on the Seine and carried off eligible matches right under the nose of les jolies Parisiennes. Recently, Alain de la Palaise, brother of Gloria's ex-Marquis, married one of the beauties imported by Patou to model his creations.

Maybe dangerous curves are ahead for the feminine form, but not so far as Chanel is concerned. For all the girls selected by her are built on slender lines, with narrow hips and fine limbs.

Nearly all of the Chanel girls have long hair, either red or blonde, and all stand erect and walk with a sprightly, easy gait. Over sixty girls paraded before the French dressmaker before she made her final selections. Twelve girls were chosen but two declined the opportunity offered. They were glad to have been chosen—but—The two girls who refused the job are Rose Walker, a dark eyed beauty and Claire Coulter, who is well known in art circles and is reputed to be the highest paid model in New York. Perhaps she just wanted to discover if Chanel knows her models.

One of the first to meet with the approval of Chanel was Christine Maple who was imported by Flo Ziegfeld from Hollywood for his "Follies." She is of the platinum blond type, and is svelte and alluringly lovely. It would be difficult to resist buying an evening frock when modeled by Miss Maple. Another blonde, this time of the ash variety, who will soon be ocean-bound, is a Danish girl, Harriet Hagman, who appeared in Earl Carroll's "Vanities." Denmark is well represented in the Chanel mannequin group for another girl of Danish parents was also chosen. She is Margaret Boneton, a home girl from Maplewood, N. J., and she too is a delectable blonde.

Two beautiful brunettes are included in the new American invasion of Paris. They are Leone Sousa of Irish and Italian parentage, but a true Spanish type, and Betty May, from Annapolis, Md. The only bobbed hair girl chosen is a New Yorker, Frances Stuart Crosby and her work in the Chanel atelier in the rue Cambon will be her first job. Needless to say, she is properly thrilled. A red haired girl, Cecile Clancy, an auburn haired charmer, Peggy Rooney, a bronze haired Follies girl, Gladys Renick, and a beautiful girl from Alabama, Carol Leslie, a dream of a girl with light brown hair, gorgeous blue eyes and a powdering of freckles, complete the lovely ten who will surely prove to be as delightful a gift as we have ever sent to France. Thus are the social amenities of nations preserved and consolidated.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. MARGARET SELLARS TUESDAY MORNING

Mrs. Margaret Sellars, 88, widow of George Sellars, died at her home on the Indian Ripple Road, early Tuesday morning. Death was due to infirmities of age and the effects of a fall she received nearly a year ago.

Mrs. Sellars was born in Cincinnati December 17, 1842, the daughter of John and Harriet Drake and was the last of a family of nine children. The Drake family later moved to Springfield. She was married to Mr. Sellars in December, 1867, and their married life was spent on a farm near Xenia. In her early life Mrs. Sellars became a member of the First Baptist Church, Springfield and on coming to Xenia became a member of the First Baptist Church here. At the time of her death she was the oldest member of the church.

Mrs. Sellars is survived by a daughter, Miss Alice R. Sellars, and a son, G. E. Sellars, both at home. Mr. Sellars preceded her in death two years ago and a daughter, Harriet C. Sellars, died several years ago.

Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the First Baptist Church and burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

WILL MAKE CLEANERS

CLEVELAND, April 21. — Contract for the manufacture of vacuum cleaners for the Electrolix Co., incorporated, of Stockholm, Sweden, has been signed by the White Sewing Machine Co., of Cleveland, it was announced today. Operations at the Cleveland plant under the contract probably will exceed $1,250,000 a year, it was said.

PRINCESS STUDIES

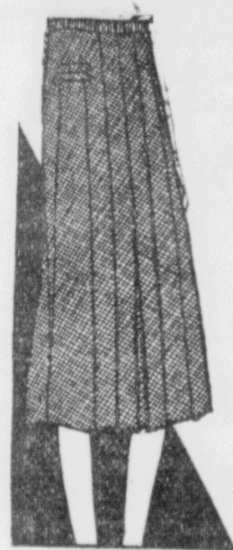

BRUSSELS, April 20. — Little Princess Josephine Charlotte, young daughter of Prince Leopold, heir to the Belgian throne, is now studying the violin with Eugene Ysaeye, celebrated Belgian violinist, now 73 years old. Like her popular grandmother, Queen Elizabeth, the little princess shows not a little musical talent and can now play a few tunes remarkably well.

A DEMONSTRATION

"The Home Of Thrift"

In times of prosperity, we have sometimes been asked what would happen to the Building Associations in times of depression, and we have answered that they would probably maintain their complete integrity as they had done in all of the previous depressions of the past half century.

This prediction is now being fully verified. The last report of the Superintendent of Building Associations disclosed that, in the year covered, not one Association had failed or quit business and that not a dollar of the billion and a quarter entrusted to them had been lost for a depositor.

In this period when the people are disturbed by the upset condition of business, this splendid record should be an assurance to the depositor whose hard-earned savings are entrusted to the Ohio Associations. In point of security, their first mortgages stand next after Government Bonds.

Helen Keller Will Make Radio Debut Wednesday

By MILDRED MASON

HELEN KELLER, who learned to talk despite the double handicap of blindness and deafness, will make her radio debut over the Columbia network Wednesday morning at 11:30 o'clock. She will appear on the program of the Radio Home-Makers' Club and will be heard through station WKRC, Cincinnati.

It is said that Miss Keller enunciates slowly and distinctly and is easy to understand. Miss Keller is a graduate of Radcliffe College and is the author of several books, including "The Story of My Life," "The World I Live In," "Optimism," and "My Religion." She will be assisted in her broadcast by Anne Sullivan Macy, her friend and teacher. Mrs. Macy will describe briefly how she was able to aid Miss Keller in learning speech.

Two Motion Stars On Air

Two motion picture stars are scheduled in broadcasts over the Columbus network through station WKRC, Cincinnati, Wednesday evening. George Bancroft will be interviewed by Louella Parsons, motion picture writer, in the Musical Cocktail program at 8:30. Anita Page will make her debut over the network at 10:15 p. m. when she gives a fashion talk on the Peter Pan program.

Broadcast Ball Game

A detailed account of the game between the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Phillies will be broadcast over the NBC network Wednesday afternoon from 3 to 5:15 o'clock. The game will be broadcast from the Polo Grounds and Graham McNamee, as announcer, will be at the press box microphone. The event will be heard over stations affiliated with WEAF, New York.

Feature Negro Impersonator

David Barnum, Negro impersonator, and his "Three Deacons," with whom he makes a vocal quartet, will be guest artists on the Camel Pleasure Hour over the NBC network through WLW, Cincinnati, Wednesday at 9:30 p. m. Barnum, who well known on the vaudeville stage, will be assisted by both vocal and instrumental accompaniment in putting across several of his numbers. His repertoire includes folk songs and spirituals as well as comedy songs of the levees and plantations.

Not a Crooner, Please

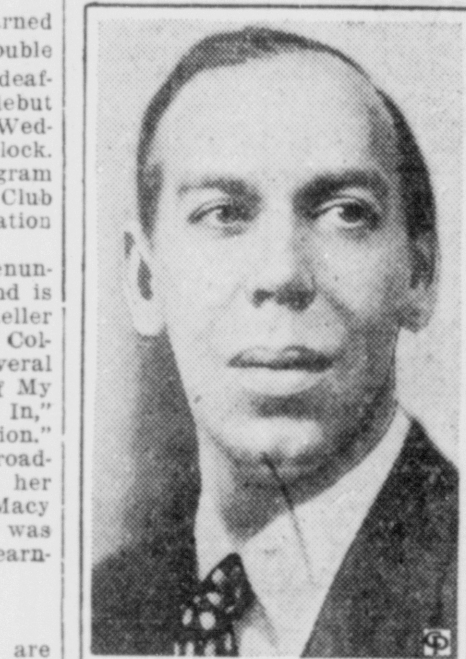

Seger Ellis, staff artist of WLW, Cincinnati, wants to be known as a "piano-playing baritone" and not a "crooner." He claims Houston, Texas, as his birthplace and other crooners coming from Texas include Gene Austin, Vernon Darrhart and Smith Ballew.

CENSOR "ALL QUIET"

NANKING—After showing before packed houses for two days, "All Quiet on the Western Front" was suddenly banned by the government. The board of censors had previously given approval of the film and the circumstances leading to its sudden stoppage remain a mystery.

NO PAY FOR INFORMERS

HARTFORD, Conn., April 20—Connecticut legislators look askance at the proposition of paying informers. A bill increasing penalties for taking overtures and shrubs without permission was tabled when it was found to provide that anyone reporting such thefts of the authorities should receive one-half the fine levied.

Reynold Evans
Besides announcing programs Reynold Evans frequently portrays a role in dramatic presentations. If you have heard him once, you aren't likely to forget his voice.

LOVE, PREFERRED

THE ROMANCE OF A BUSINESS GIRL

By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER

Author of "Dad's Girl," "Joretta," Etc.

Copyright 1931, Central Press Association

READ THIS FIRST:

Mary Vaughn is private secretary to Ronald K. Foster, an investment banker of Wall Street. She supports her family of mother, twin brothers and a younger sister, Bonnie, who dislikes work and is the spoiled beauty of the family. Mary has always cared for her and given her the best of everything, until she wants to attract Dick Baldwin, the debonair young man whom Mary loves. Martin Frazier, who is Foster's wealthiest client, has persisted in asking Mary to go about with him, until her employer asks her to be nice to him on business principles. Frazier puzzles her with his affectionately courteous attitude. On the way home from a Greenwich Village studio party with some of Dick's famous friends, they have an understanding that as soon as he has reached a certain goal in business they will make more definite plans. Mary is so tired the next evening that she is glad to go home early from the office, planning for a quiet evening, only to find that Bonnie has suddenly decided to give a big party so Mary assists her mother with the task of making it a success. Bonnie learns that Mary has met an "arty" group, and wants to know them, too. Frazier tells Mary the next day that he is going south for a month, and asks her to dine with him the following evening.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 19

Mary considered. If Frazier were leaving town for a month, perhaps she should humor him once more. She might be engaged to Dick by the time Martin came back, and that would end her obligations to him. He couldn't blame her for deserting him, if he left her for a whole month.

"Perhaps I can, unless Mr. Foster needs me to work late," she agreed.

He was vastly pleased. "Leave that to be. Is Foster in? I'd like a moment with him, anyway, if he isn't too busy."

Mary spoke into the telephone, and the moment was readily granted him.

She turned back to her work with little thought of her promise to dine with Frazier the next evening. Her subconscious mind was filled with anticipation for this evening with Dick. She had worn a simple black lace dinner dress that day, to be ready for the evening. It formed a becoming contrast for the smooth, creamy texture of her skin, and combined with the happiness within her to emphasize the poise and beauty that were naturally hers.

It was a long, slow drive uptown with Dick, in the early evening traffic; but finally they arrived at one of the brownstone mansions in the West Parties where an Oriental sign swung from an iron frame over the scroiled iron railings that flanked the steps. As they entered, a very squat, obese, black-eyed man waddled up to greet Dick with an expansive, oily smile. The room was small for a public restaurant, and redolent with foreign food odors. Mary wasn't so sure she was going to like it. Then she thought with amusement, "But of course I shall like it. Dick and I are in India on a world tour."

The menu was only a single brief column, but she hadn't the least idea how to use it.

"You only have to make one choice here," Dick explained. "Do you want egg, chicken, shrimp or vegetable Kabab Curry? You get all the rest on the list."

"Egg Curry, then. One guess is as good as another. Then what?" studying the small card, "Badami soup, rice, dahl—what is that?"

"India peas," Dick explained. "Turkish vegetables, rose petals with honey, Oriental coffee. What a menu! Just imagine eating rose petals and drinking perfumed coffee. I shouldn't want them for a steady diet. How long are we staying in India?" blithely.

"We sail tonight," she promised and their smiles embraced each other as only two people can smile whose hearts and souls are in perfect accord.

Mary found the food highly seasoned, but enjoyed it well enough. "I prefer Sukiyaki, however," she decided.

"So do I. But I thought you would like to try this."

The dessert was delicious, like a fanciful dream, she thought. It was sweet and delightful after the spicy, heavier food; like this evening's sparkling hours that followed the busy, exacting day at the office.

There was not a vacant seat in the theater, but they two might have been the only spectators for all they knew or cared. Sitting there, close beside Dick in the vibrant dusk, the vast sea of tense faces about them seemed to recede into space. They were alone, to gether.

The play was brilliant, ostensibly modern, quite risqué. There were quips and lines that left Mary somewhat bewildered, but she feigned a sophistication that she laughing in derision, and before long they were victors. Nothing is invulnerable to their attack. Friendships, loves and kinships are their favorite prey.

But Mary and Dick murmured their lingering good-nights in serene confidence that love is king of the universe and happiness its queen so long as he rules.

"How about seeing a hockey game on Friday night? I'll be gone again for a couple of days—down to Philadelphia; so I can't see you sooner," his voice held regret.

"I'd love to go. Call me Friday and I'll tell you for sure. I'm bored to have to work one or two nights this week, but I hope it won't be Friday." And she thought, "I hope it is tomorrow night."

"Until Friday, then," he kissed her again and let her go.

From Tuesday until Friday, Mary thought, was a long time not to see Dick. And then laughed at herself for being so foolish. She knew perfectly well that three days passed swiftly enough when one was as busy as she. There was Martin Frazier to cope with again tomorrow night, too. She sighed, grateful that he hadn't proved so difficult. After all, how glad she was that he was going away for a month. She hoped it would stay south even for longer—the winter perhaps.

He had been south for all the previous winter, she knew. She had gone to work for Foster in the autumn and it had been late in the spring before she ever saw Martin Frazier. How well she remembered that first day when he came in and found her there. His natty attire had attracted her attention instantly. Smartly patterned tweed, blue-gray tie and shirt, gloves and spats blended and became one, as water met the sky at the horizon and became inseparable. She had guessed at once that he was Martin Frazier, of whom Foster spoke with something akin to awe, and whose holdings in stock seemed staggering to her.

And now, she was dining with him tomorrow evening, for the second time within a week. Well, it would be the last time, also.

HONOR STUDENTS AT WITTENBERG

Once yearly Wittenberg College students and faculty meet to pay honor to the student.

Monday marked the eleventh annual Honor Day convocation held in the college field house and Dr. C. G. Shatzer, dean, read names of 123 students, including three from Greene County, who excelled in classroom and laboratory work during the second semester of last school year, which ended in June, 1930, and for the first semester of the present school term which ended in January.

All of them had scholarship quotients of 3.50 or above, indicating each has performed excellent to admirable work.

For the second semester of last school year, the honor students named included Rheumilla Arthur, R. A. No. 2, Osborn. Those who were named for excellent work in the first semester of the present school year included Frances Jack, Xenia, and Howard Flatter, R. R. No. 3, Osborn.

Success in Hollywood comes with a sweep fit to turn any but the coolest head. Since "Cimarron," Irene Dunne has become one of the most sought-after players.

With half a dozen things planned for her at RKO, she goes first to Metro to play opposite Adolphe Menjou in "The Great Lover," one of Leo Dietrichstein's greatest successes.

Menjou has long had the ambition to make it into a talkie. His role is that of a baritone who loses his voice at the height of his career. Fate deals him another blow when a young understudy also replaces him in the affections of the prima donna.

The story is shrewdly contrived. Menjou, who does not sing, will not have to because of his lost voice while Irene, who does sing, will have ample opportunity. Arthur Robinson, who has been doon contraband liquors. The two statements are in direct conflict. "The real cause of agricultural depression is over-production, or the production of a greater supply in particular farm products than the people can consume. This is attributable to the fact that the American people are eating less bread—which means wheat—and less corn products per capita than when agriculture was prosperous. The people simply are eating different foods. It is significant that in the very period, in which wheat and corn consumption shows a decline on the per capita basis, the consumption of fruits and green vegetables has increased.

"It may be that doctors are the cause of our farm depression. But whatever the cause, the people are not eating as much wheat or corn as before, and that is the main reason for the over-production."

Hastings cannot see the tariff as a major issue next year. He recalled that Democratic leaders, one after the other, endorsed a protective tariff in 1928 and the Democratic convention subsequently adopted a plank advocating a tariff to equalize the "costs of production at home and abroad."

"To my mind," he added, "it is absurd to insist the tariff has affected our foreign trade. In truth, in this day of world depression, if we did not have the tariff protection granted by the Smoot-Hawley bill, foreign nations would have stolen our home markets with their cheaper products, manufactured under European wage scales, and under-sold our own merchants, paralyzing American industry and commerce. We have been preventing a grave panic by the tariff wall and I believe the American people realize it."

Hastings regards the Hoover administration's record in foreign affairs as a distinct asset for the 1932 campaign—though he does not expect it to become an important issue.

"There will be no real issue on foreign affairs," he explained. "I never won any political party anything and the party that tries to make foreign affairs a dominant issue usually loses that election. Of course, the administration's record in handling foreign affairs has been extremely pleasing to the great mass of our people and is bound to attract sympathetic consideration in the next campaign. If the Democrats try to attack that record, they will lose the election—particularly if they seek to make it a dominant issue."

In parting, Hastings again repeated his conviction: "The 1932 campaign will be decided by the economic situation when the voters go to the polls. All other issues will be inconsequential."

OPPOSES HOOVER

Describing himself as wet and anti-Hoover, former Senator Joseph L. France of Maryland, above, Republican, has tossed his hat into the presidential ring. France was one of the senate "irreconcilables" who opposed our entry into the League of Nations. Republican leaders say Hoover will be renominated by acclamation.

YOUTH ACQUITTED OF BURGLARY HERE

Charles Randall, 18, of Leaman St., was acquitted of a burglary and larceny charge by a jury in Common Pleas Court following a second trial of the case Monday.

The jury deliberated two and one-half hours. The first trial February 20 ended in a jury disagreement.

Randall was accused of implication in the robbery of the Frank Fletcher grocery, 416 W. Second St., January 2 in which a quantity of tobacco and foodstuffs was stolen.

ACCIDENT - FREE UTOPIA PREDICTED AT SAFETY MEETING

said he asked himself afterward. Thinking others might have noticed the same results, he summoned his "safety foremen."

"Are you going anything differently since we started this safety drive?" the foremen were quizzed.

And sure enough, Lynch said, after the foremen gave the question a little thought they admitted that they had been cleaning up the stairways to prevent falls, repairing step-ladders, ordering their wives against climbing about on shaky stools and chairs, and taking other safety measures.

"Employees were even having fewer automobile accidents," he claimed.

"Our visiting nurses reported a decline in accidents of all kinds at employees' homes."

As for the factory, "lost time" accidents under a safety drive plan executed by employees instead of a safety director fell from 156 in 1927 to four in 1930.

"We haven't had an infection at the factory in three years," Lynch said.

He believed that was because one of the safety rules requires that every injury, no matter how trivial, be reported at once to the first aid department.

The secret of the plan to eliminate home accidents as well as factory accidents, Lynch said, may be put briefly:

"We are building safety thoughts into men's consciences that will work automatically wherever they happen to be," that, he said, is the hope of the future.
